Design) 20 May 2019 – President Donald J. Trump has released the Administration's Fiscal Year (FY) 2020 budget proposal to Congress. Trump's budget seeks to eliminate $4.4 billion in funding for the Occupational Safety and Health Administration's (OSHA) budget for the federal Fiscal Year 2020. According to OSHA, "The American worker is among the safest in the world, but we can and must do better." OSHA works to improve worker safety and health, and reduce incidents causing injury and illness in the workplace. Additionally, by reducing the number of incidents causing injuries, OSHA is able to reduce the number of workers' compensation claims and premiums. According to OSHA, it is more than 3.9 million workers annually that are injured on the job, meaning that they are not able to perform their normal duties. An estimated 2.2 million of these workers are injured more than once each year. OSHA defines workplace violence as when a worker is harmed or killed by an intentional act of violence, as well as by an act of violence committed in retaliation for the performance of their job duties. Every day, an estimated 2,800 workers die on the job and there are nearly 2 million nonfatal work-related injuries. "Every worker should feel safe in their workplace. Our budget would cut the funding for OSHA, which is essential to ensuring all workers are safe on the job," said Donald Trump Jr., OSHA's Acting Assistant Secretary for the Office of Standards. "Unfortunately, our nation has lost nearly a1d647c40b
