scythe_matriarch Hi, What sort of 'sounds' have you loaded into the cue? If the sounds are ADPCM PCM wav, they will be stored in the sound queue in SoundQ Activation Code. If they are .au or .wav files, they will be stored in SoundQ, and a .dif will be created between the file and queue. If they are encoded in MP3 or PCM, they will be stored in SoundQ, but will not be marked as a cue (unless you are running the plugin in manual mode).

Hi Ziggy, I've made that change but what I don't understand is that when I'm editing the text file I can add to the cue, but once I'm done with the cue, how do I make it read-only? 09-07-2009, 06:54 PM Ziggy Change the file type back to "Uncompressed/8 Bit Mono..." Then change the file format of the audio file to "STX" (modified to X to allow mixing with soundQ) That is it... And SoundQ will then read the file and let you change all the attributes including the Hit 'Play' in the top menu. If you like the file you can make a cue letter compatible with previous versions. Finally, hit 'Remove'. This command will delete everything (sound and effect) in your cue library. Share this post Link to post Share on other sites Randomizer1 1,658 Randomizer1 1,658 Nice work with the plug-in itself. Selective detection of Salmonella and Shigella in environmental samples. A genetic test for the detection of Salmonella and Shigella in environmental samples was designed. The assay is based on the amplification of the 16S rRNA gene by the polymerase chain reaction and restriction fragment length polymorphism of amplified products. Using this assay, the detection of Salmonella was found to be 91% specific and 100% sensitive. The test could distinguish Salmonella from a variety of other Salmonella, a common contaminant. The detection of Shigella was more difficult; 4 of 14 isolates of Shigella were not detected, suggesting that the assay may be more useful for detecting this species in environmental samples than for detecting it in clinical samples. These include not using abusive or obscene language, not falsely threatening legal action, and not damaging your property. The act also says that creditors cannot contact you at inconvenient times, such as in the middle of the night or on the weekend.
